LinkedIn followers — the gap

Multipoint Network is a small, founder-led Beverly Hills firm that has rebranded into a "Design. Build. Grow." software, AI/ML, and entertainment-infrastructure boutique — custom software, in-house AI/ML production systems, a real Cloudflare practice, and SOC 2 / CMMC / TPN (the studios' content-security standard) behind it, with media client logos including Warner Bros., Paramount, and NBCUniversal. The work is first-rate. The problem is that almost no one outside its existing relationships can tell. This summary states only verified facts and defers every company-specific number to discovery.

The opportunity is visibility, not capability. The IT-services firms that win are vertically specialised, security-first, and AI-forward — Multipoint already is all three. What it lacks is the industry's most-cited growth constraint: a demand engine. A thin website, ~122 LinkedIn followers, little search presence, and a flagship cost-reduction case (a published $187K-to-$3K cloud story) almost no prospect ever sees.

What we verified

- A rebranded, AI-forward boutique: custom software, in-house AI/ML production systems, and a real Cloudflare practice — not a generic managed-IT shop (the legacy MSP positioning still lingers in directories).

- Studio-grade and proven: SOC 2, CMMC, and TPN (the entertainment industry's content-security standard), with client logos including Warner Bros., Paramount, and NBCUniversal shown on their site.
- Founder-led and small: Brian Bloom, President; a senior team of a handful of people; ~20 years in business. Revenue and headcount are discovery items, not assumptions.
- Near-invisible to the market: a thin, single-narrative website, ~122 LinkedIn followers, and almost no search or review presence — the clearest, lowest-cost place to start.

The one idea

Multipoint sits in the rarest quadrant in its market: high capability, low visibility. Competitors are either visible-but-ordinary or scaled-but-generic. The move is not to build more capability — it already has that — but to become as findable as it is good. That is a solvable, fast problem.

The engine

Three columns: get found for what you already do, capture that traffic into qualified pipeline, and win named media accounts — each delivered by a specific Technijian service.

The Multipoint Network AI Growth Engine

Get found for what you already do (left); convert the traffic into qualified pipeline (centre); win the named media accounts (right).

* My SEO · My AI · My AI Lead Gen · My Dev. AI drafts, finds, and triages; a human approves every outbound and owns the brand voice — this augments the founder-led sales motion, it doesn't replace it.

Investment & the path forward

No invented numbers. We price from real, published Technijian service ranges (My SEO, My AI Lead Gen, My Dev) and model ROI only after discovery — on qualified leads, win rate, and average engagement value, not a guessed revenue figure. With large deal sizes and a near-empty pipeline, even a modest lift in visibility is high-impact. The path is land-and-expand: get found first, then build the demand engine and account-based outbound.

We are not here to out-engineer you — your AI/ML work is ahead of most. We are here to out-market for you. The easiest first step is a short, peer-to-peer conversation, or a free visibility assessment — your search footprint, AI-assistant citations, and the gap to your nearest visible competitor. The full blueprint ends with a structured questionnaire — "Questions to Complete the Analysis" — that turns this summary into a costed plan.
